What are the Keys to Leading a Multi-billion Dollar Enterprise? The ‘Soft Stuff’ Matters!

Former CEO of Automatic Data Processing (ADP), Josh Weston, is coming to the Babbio Center at Stevens Institute of Technology to share his secrets on leadership. Weston led ADP, the largest payroll and tax filing processor in the world, through 164 consecutive quarters of double-digit growth. He has also served on many corporate boards including PSE&G and J.Crew. Based on this experience, Weston will offer 12 key ideas for leading organizations, all of which have to do with making the most of your people and leading with integrity. Time will also be permitted for questions on corporate ethics, governance, and CEO compensation.

Please join us: A reception at 6:15 will precede the event.
Talk begins at 6:30.

Heath Leadership Seminar Series

The Heath Leadership Seminar Series is designed to give the Stevens community an opportunity to listen to – and learn from – the experiences of corporate leaders in business and industry. This program is supported by A. Roy Heath, a 1938 graduate of Stevens, who believes that one needs much more than technical expertise to be a strong leader.
